At Tilliehashlach. A charming stretch of country on the banks of the Don, familiarly known as "Paradise." The clump of beeches is a well-known place for picnic parties, and has indeed been patronised by Royalty, Queen Victoria and the Prince Consort visiting and picnicking here during their visit to the Highlands in 1858, Her Majesty repeating her visit in 1866, when she drove over from Balmoral, 50 miles distant, a strong testimony to the beauty of the spot.
